am aware of a watercolor landscape of gray and green—mist and rain meeting trees, grass, and flowers—beyond the beveled panes. But here by the window, it is a book that absorbs me. Feathered with pillows, the window seat is a nest, formed on either end by walls of shelves, brimming with the promise of future reads.

That is a daydream that comforts me. Although the setting is mostly imaginary, the books are real and so are the memories they evoke. I have been transported to it by a conversation with Beta/Indiana alumna Anita Silvey, editor of The Horn Book Magazine, a quarterly publication that reviews and recommends literature for young people. (See Theta Profile on page 29.)

What is so appealing to me about that daydream is its simplicity: The implied stretch of time with nothing to do but read, the spare, but cozy surroundings, the serenity. I can imagine no better sort of hideout in a complex grown-up world.

Maybe I have been influenced by the media and its talk of how we, as a nation, are responding to the excesses of the '80s by getting back to basics. Or it may be merely that I have my own personal need to uncomplicate life and its accompanying schedules and commitments. Whatever the reason, I find that the whole concept of simplifying is a theme in my thinking these days. Even more than usual, I am intent on getting past the superficial to the substance. So it is that I am especially interested in the trend that Theta and other women's Greek organizations are taking.

A 1991 National Panhellenic Conference Rush Resolution recommended that sororities refocus their rush activities: giving more attention to conversation and less to entertainment. (See Message from the President on page 5.) Kappa Alpha Theta has been working toward that goal and, in an effort to make Theta rush as productive and meaningful as possible, the Fraternity has introduced a new leadership training seminar for rush leaders and advisers called The Rush Leader. Another program that emphasizes quality over quantity is the Fraternity's new Member Orientation program, an improved, more concise version of the previous pledge program.

Why are these programs important? One of the new members of Theta's newly established Zeta Xi Chapter, the first women's fraternity at Harvard, said, "At Harvard, we felt that the Member Orientation program was not only appealing to us, but that it would be appealing to the women who would rush in the future...Women here aren't interested in spending an entire semester playing silly games, but they'll want to be considered members as soon as possible." (See article on page 12.)

This is true not only at Harvard, but at universities across the country. If it appears to be a desire for immediate gratification, or a way of taking a short cut, it's not. Today's college women are serious about their educations and are trying to be realistic about balancing their schedules, which include not only classes and campus activities, but in many cases, jobs to finance their educations. It's a lot of pressure and they're looking to Theta for the same sense of support, shared values and friendship that our founders sought. They're also looking to a system of membership selection that will help them best find like-minded young women.

When rush gets back to the basics — truly getting to know others and sharing Theta's values of friendship, intellectual excellence and service to others — it encourages careful thought without limiting diversity. It works because it helps keep priorities straight. It frees young women to enjoy the sort of understanding Anita Silvey found in her own collegiate Theta experience: "They must have liked in me what I liked in them."

So I am back to my daydream, which may be more pertinent than I first realized. After all, it was in the classic book "Anne of Green Gables" that Anne described her search for "kindred spirits." And that is who we are able to discover when rush is at its best. It's that simple.

Loyally,

fraternity is only as strong as its members. Whatever we have been, or are to become, will depend on our ability to attract quality women. Our collective body of members is built during membership recruitment, one sister at a time.

Rush is probably the one event that immediately conjures up memories for almost every Theta. A vignette of rush prior to 1900 would be a pleasing picture of simpler times. I imagine it was more informal and unceremonious because there were fewer women and fewer Greek groups. One Theta wanted a friend or classmate to be a Theta, and so she introduced her to the small band of sisters, usually 12 to 16 members. Getting to know one another through conversation and interaction was natural.

As other fraternities for women and sororities developed, competition among the various groups intensified. Rush parties and week-long rush schedules became the norm. We, like other groups, began to use a mutual selection process which could often be based on shallow and superficial activities. The process, rather than the prospective member, became the focus.

According to Sixty Years in Kappa Alpha Theta, at a 1900 Beta District Convention, Thetas concluded that the rushing "evil is not growing less," and declared that it was the district's policy "to be as prominent as possible in all departments of college life" so as to attract more members.

Because of the growing emphasis on frivolous rushing tactics, it soon became apparent that standards and uniform practices were needed among the various women's fraternities. In 1902. Alpha Phi Fraternity invited Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Delta Gamma, Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Chi Omega and Chi Omega to an intersorority conference. The purpose of the called meeting was to discuss the question of rushing and pledging and to suggest "a set of bylaws to be adopted by all fraternities represented, which should lead to the amelioration of existing conditions." (NPC Historical Review 1991 Update). This meeting resulted in mutually acceptable agreements, especially in the area of pledging.

The Unanimous Agreements bind the 26 members groups and are the foundation upon which the National Panhellenic Conference is built. Throughout its history, many resolutions have been introduced to address mutual concerns. NPC will undoubtedly long be remembered for its 1991 Rush Resolution, which says in a nutshell that extravagant entertaining is out and clever conversation is in.

Because of the signatures of our International President and NPC Delegate, each collegiate and alumna member is also responsible for the full implementation of this directive. The nine points of the 1991 Rush Resolution put the focus of the selection process back on character, congeniality, friendship and scholarship, the basis for a strong sisterhood. It is ironic

It is refreshing to know that sisterly bonds and timeless values are being demonstrated and explained in a genuine way through meaningful conversation and friendly interaction. Once again Kappa Alpha Theta can be sure it is attracting the right women for the right reasons. Selecting members with love and careful thought will result in a committed and dedicated membership, which will be our legacy well into the 21st century.

Higher Education: A Timely Topic

Just finished reading the newest Magazine and once again, Theta's official publication is in tune with current events: I just heard today on NPR [National Public Radio] as I drove to work, a report on SATs, PSATs, National Merit Scholarships, etc. and how women students are at a disadvantage because of the built-in biases in the testing and selection of scholarships. It all dovetailed so well with the feature article on education — an article prepared well before the current news was reported today. "Our" crystal ball continues to amaze!

Carol Trimmer Alpha Chi/Purdue Alumnae Regional Director

I commend you for your article, "Higher Education: Are Women Reaching Full Potential?" (Spring 1993)

Having been recently admitted as only one of 12 students to pursue doctoral studies this year in education leadership at a private university in Seattle, I have often seen far too many young women, unlike myself, easily discouraged by society to obtain an undergraduate degree or, worse, any further education beyond the four year degree academic commitment. This is a tragedy.

I challenge Thetas to think: How can we expect to change the system for women, if more women don't first commit themselves to personally embrace the higher education system as a career? More women are needed as leaders in higher education.

Young women must know that successful change and progress in our academic achievement/system will not come by passively waiting for society to approve of our actions to learn and lead. Rather, change will only occur for women by those who first internally embrace for themselves the attitude that they are worthy to learn and lead to the highest level.

How fortunate and indebted we should be to our founders for articulating these ideals and creating Kappa Alpha Theta as a ground-breaking organization, which nurtures and challenges women to develop this perspective. The key to success in academics and life stems from an active, healthy inner perspective of self-esteem: An "I can, I am able and I am worthy" attitude. Theta sisterhood nurtures this....

Stacie L. Becker Delta Iota/Puget Sound

The article in the Spring 1993 Theta magazine concerning women reaching their full potential was especially interesting to me. The "Beginnings of Bias" may well begin in the classroom as the American Association of University Women's Wellesley report indicates. I am an activist in my community on behalf of gender equality and see encouraging changes taking place in teacher education.

I have also been happy to work with Theta Mary (James) Abbott, Denison '54, on the Network Task Force on Adolescent Females. Mary is one of the directors of the Science Explorium in Boca Raton and is currently seeking grant money to address the problem of gender bias leading to loss of self-esteem in adolescent girls and the consequent lack of involvement in science and math programs.

Each woman's potential can and is being more fully realized as Thetas continue to work together throughout their lives in all parts of the country. Keep those informative articles coming!

Alumnae Report Response

I was disappointed in the positioning of the "Perfect School" article in the Alumnae Report section of the Spring 1993 issue. By giving it a lead-off position and a full page, I thought I was reading a magazine about "Christian Family" success stories rather than The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine.

The picture of the children says it all. These all white, perfectly groomed children are not learning about diversity or different ways of thinking. Instead they are attending a school that isolates them and reinforces a politically conservative religious dogma that will make them less tolerant and less prepared for modern life.

Just as the Northwestern University Panhellenic has created emPOWER to help end the stereotypes of Greek women, we should continue to dispel the stereotypes in the Theta Magazine by not highlighting the accomplishments of our members who reinforce them.

Mary Kay Fordney Psi/Wisconsin

I have always enjoyed reading The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine but the Spring 1993 issue was of particular interest to me. For the past 12 years, I have chosen to stay home to raise my children. As I anticipate my youngest child entering school, I also am investigating my career choices outside my home...My attention was drawn to the Alumnae Report, especially the segment on Anne Thomas and her work in the GRADS program...Congratulations on your fine publication.

Grand Council regrets to announce the closing of Epsilon Theta Chapter at Stetson University in Deland, Fla. Decreasing membership made it impossible to carry on chapter operations. A careful examination of all factors affecting the success of a possible recolonization forced Fraternity officers to accept the charter unanimously surrendered by the undergraduate members on February 21, 1993.

Collegians

The Award for Excellence was presented by the Whitman College administration to Theta's Delta Delta Chapter on December 3, 1992. Chapter President Gianna di Franco accepted the award, which is given to organizations that have shown outstanding achievement in each of 11 categories: scholarship, membership recruitment, associate member education, finances, chapter management, social responsibility, alumni relations, Panhellenic participation, college relations, community service/philanthropy and internal programming. Due to the demanding criteria and application process, the award was last given four years ago.

The 1992 University of Florida Panhellenic, whose executive board included two Delta Theta collegians, was recognized with two awards at the Southeastern Panhellenic Conference held in Birmingham, Alabama, in April, 1992. Panhellenic Executive Vice President Jennifer Breiner and Secretary Sigrid Stone (current 1993 President of the Florida Panhellenic Council) were among the executive board members present to accept the awards for best Panhellenic Council in the country and best philanthropy program in the Southeast. Kappa Alpha Theta National Panhellenic Conference Delegate Lissa Bradford and former Council member Sue Blair were on hand to support the award-winning Panhellenic council.

Several Gamma Delta/ Georgia collegians accepted the challenge to "Dare to Care!" featured in the Autumn 1992 issue of The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine. Kate Dodson, Jennifer Riley and Christy Darden met the nation's new First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton at an Atlanta fund-raiser last fall. They were joined by Darden's parents, U.S. Representative Buddy Darden, D-Ga. and Lillian Darden, who was initiated into Gamma Delta Chapter in 1964.

"Deck the halls" took on new meaning for Gamma Iota/Kentucky members last December. At the chapter's annual Christmas party, the members were divided into Theta families in order to purchase gifts for needy families in the Lexington, Ky. area. Each group of collegians bought items that the children had asked Santa to bring. Requests ranged from gloves, hats and socks to makeup and walkman radios. The Thetas saw to it that the children would not be disappointed on Christmas.

Last fall Alpha Eta collegian Dana Neubauer received the Academic Achievement Award presented by the Vanderbilt Department of Athletics to recognize academic excellence and achievement. The Vanderbilt University junior, majoring in cognitive studies and psychology in the Peabody College at Vanderbilt, was recognized before a crowd of more than 40,000 during half-time ceremonies at the Vanderbilt-Ole Miss football game in September.

Members of Theta's Delta Psi Chapter at UC-Riverside won the Spirit Award in the campus Greek Games competition.

Biology majors Courtney Barancin and Ann Ellison, Nu/Hanover, received grants from Hanover's Richter Grant Program to research environmental topics in Great Britain and Australia in 1992. In June, they studied the conservation of sea birds in Great Britain. They traveled to Australia in December to study the effectiveness of wildlife parks in the creation of natural habitats for Australia's unique wildlife.

Delta Psi members received the Spirit Award for their participation in the 1992 Greek Games at UC-Riverside. The Thetas teamed up with the men of Phi Kappa Sigma for a week of competition in events, including a new member pyramid, obstacle course, volleyball tournament, philanthropy day at a local elementary school, lip-sync contest and skits. Benefits from the week's events went to the philanthropies of the Greek organizations on campus.

Alumnae

Beta Sigma/Southern Methodist alumna Patricia Edwards has become the first woman to serve on the Alpha Tau Omega Foundation Board of Governors. The Dallas volunteer and mother of two has served as president of the AT $\Omega$  Parents Club at SMU and is active in the Junior League, Franklin County Library Board and Key Club of Mt. Vernon. Edwards writes that her goal as a board member is, "To continue the AT $\Omega$  tradition in my family and, as the first non-AT $\Omega$ , to serve the Foundation to the best of my wisdom and ability."

Annapolis-Senema Park alumnae dressed Teddy bears, provided by the Salvation Army, to give to needy children last Christmas.

The Des Moines Alumnae Chapter hosted Beta Omicron/Iowa alumna Mary Louise Smith, nationally recognized for her long and distinguished career of public service, at its October 1992 meeting. Smith, who is best known for her service as national chairman of the Republican party from 1974 to 1977 and her two years as vice chairman of the United States Commission on Civil Rights, has spent more than 40 years in political volunteerism, which began in the early 1950s when she volunteered as a campaign worker for the Republican party. She spoke to the group about "a 50-year Theta's perspective on the Iowa ERA."

Members of the Annapolis-Severna Park Alumnae Club dressed 24 teddy bears for the Salvation Army of Annapolis to give to needy children last Christmas. Club President Dorothy Waugh, Beta Xi/UCLA, reports the project enabled the Thetas to be creative and to feel good about their contribution.

On January 12, 1993, Judge Patti Kitching, Beta Xi/UCLA, became Justice Kitching. The Theta alumna was nominated to be an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, second district, by Governor Pete Wilson. Kitching, a 1963 graduate of UCLA, graduated cum laude, from Loyola Law School in 1974.

In 1983 and 1984, as deputy attorney general of the state of California, Kitching briefed and argued cases before the U.S. Supreme Court, receiving a unanimous decision in each case. Kitching is a former president of the Palos Verdes Peninsula Alumnae Chapter night group.

Nancy Zimpher, acting dean of the College of Education at The Ohio State University, has been chosen to fill that position on a permanent basis. The Alpha Gamma/Ohio State alumna is a professor of educational policy and leadership, and last spring, received the University's highest honor for teaching: the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching.

The Stillwater Oklahoma Alumnae Club donated $100 to help launch the newly formed Payne County Court Appointed Special Advocate Assocation, Inc. Representing the Stillwater Club, Beta Zeta/Oklahoma State alumna Vonda Evans, right, presented the check to Cindy Pilgrim, the registered agent of the corporation.

Backstage at the Cincinnati Ballet's "Nutcracker" performance last December, three Theta alumnae — all staff members of the Cincinnati Ballet — join ballet soloist Marjorie Hardwick, performer of the lead role of Sugar Plum Fairy, from left: Gina M. Martin, Holly Sulek Ingram, Marjorie Hardwick and Peggy Jackson Nachtrab.

The staff of the Cincinnati Ballet includes three members of Kappa Alpha Theta. Holly Sulek Ingram, Alpha Gamma/Ohio State, is the Cincinnati Ballet's public relations manager; Peggy Jackson Nachtrab, Delta Omicron/Alabama, is employed as marketing manager; and Gina M. Martin, Alpha Tau/Cincinnati, serves as the BRAVO! volunteer coordinator. The three women have become good friends and are active in the Cincinnati Alumnae Chapter, of which Martin is president and Ingram is vice-president for public relations.

Events

The Houston Alumnae Chapter's 40th Anniversary Theta Charity Antiques Show, held September 17-20, 1992, drew thousands of visitors who turned out to see the impressive collection of antiques, featuring more than 50 prominent exhibitors from across the country. The annual show is regarded as one of the nation's top antiques shows and the oldest, continuous show of its caliber.

Thanks to the commitment of the Theta alumnae, as well as the generosity of the Houston community, the 1992 show, "The White House, Masterpiece of the Republic, 1792-1992," awarded $20,000 to the Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation and $250,000 to Houston civic, cultural and medical institutions. Benefits are derived from donations, ticket sales and advertising in the handsome Show catalog.

Beta Phi/Penn State hosted its fifth annual Theta Tennis Classic last October. More than 35 teams participated in the 1992 event, which raised $5,244 to benefit CASA.

Beta Chi members at the University of Alberta relax after their successful Run for Ronny service event

Beta Chi collegians raised more than $2,300 for the Ronald McDonald House in Edmonton with their Run for Ronny service event in October. University of Alberta teams were sponsored to run for three hours, with one or two members at a time running.

Thetas from the Los Angeles, Palos Verdes, Pasadena, and Ventura alumnae chapters joined former Kappa Alpha Theta President Janet Peters for a luncheon benefiting CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates) at the Los Angeles Hilton last October. The Honorable Leonard P. Edwards spoke to the 900 guests about coordinating the work of businesses, government and the public to aid abused children. Peters, who now serves on the board of directors of CASA, says, "Since Theta adopted CASA (as its philanthropy) in 1989, both the national and local CASA organizations have been amazed at the strength and enthusiasm that has come out of Theta."

Delta Sigma alumnae and collegians participated in a career workshop, sponsored by Delta Sigma House Corporation members, at Ball State University in January. After Founders Day Brunch, the informal session was conducted to assist collegians in making career decisions. Alumnae shared personal career and job-seeking experiences. Other topics included resume preparation, interviewing, balancing career and family, and job search programs offered by Theta.

In 1992, the Butte-Anaconda Alumnae Club of Butte, Montana, realized its greatest profit in the 16-year history of its annual Theta Paper Caper, the sale of quality gift wrap and accessories. All profits from the event are donated to the Alpha Nu Chapter house and, last year, the club donated $1,000 to renovate the chapter's library, in memory of long-time member Margaret Davis Sarsfield, Alpha Nu/Montana.

Former President Janet Peters and area Theta alumnae gathered in Los Angeles for a luncheon to benefit CASA, Theta's philanthropy.

Theta 2000 Mission Begins

Where Are Alumnae Headed In The 21st Century?

Vice-President Alumnae Kathy Tonkel and members of the Theta 2000 Commission note ideas for improving alumnae programming.

crack team of Theta alumnae from across the United States and Canada arrived in Indianapolis last January on a mission. The not-so-secret meeting took place at Kappa Alpha Theta headquarters where the password equaled the name of the project: Theta 2000.

The mission? To develop an improved alumnae program that supports the Fraternity and better serves the needs and lifestyles of today's Theta alumnae members, with the goal of enabling Kappa Alpha Theta to continue to grow and provide leadership into the 21st century.

Led by Vice-President Alumnae Kathy Tonkel and Director of Chapter Services Betsy Sierk; and armed with informative responses from presidents of Theta alumnae chapters and clubs, alumnae district presidents, college district presidents, college regional directors, and Council members, the 12 women gathered to share the facts, study the issues and find solutions.

According to Tonkel, members of the Theta 2000 Commission were chosen for their creativity, problem-solving skills, and ability to see the big picture as well as envision the future. Ranging in age from 27 to 60, the women represented diverse geographic areas and Theta experiences. "We wanted alumnae who were 'in the trenches,' dealing with alumnae every day and in touch with what's going on in real life," says Tonkel.

Following Thursday arrivals and introductions, Friday was spent with professional facilitator and dynamic workshop leader Barbie Tootle, Director of Special Projects for the Office of the President of The Ohio State University. In her "Ages and Stages" workshop, Tootle directed the women in exercises designed to help them look at Theta in terms of its relevance to today's women and what it can offer alumnae in each decade of life. The next step was a discussion of how these needs and interests can be converted into programs that will attract women to Theta alumnae involvement.

Saturday was "reality day." Responses from the alumnae, who were previously interviewed by Theta 2000 Commission members, were compiled and organized. The women were able to see patterns of responses emerging, which led to Sunday morning's discussion of the point of the mission: "the raison d'etre of Kappa Alpha Theta for alumnae members," according to Tonkel.

The conclusion of the weekend meeting signaled the beginning of member assignments, made with the purpose of fulfilling commission recommendations in four areas: organization/structure, communication, programming and marketing. Although some of the suggestions may be accomplished quickly and easily, others will take a number of months to complete and still others, such as organization restructuring, will require several years to study and implement.

Phase one of Theta 2000 was an exciting and enlightening success. Look for details and ongoing coverage of Theta 2000 in upcoming issues. For now ....mission accomplished!

Theta Becomes First Women's Fraternity at Harvard

appa Alpha Theta, the first Greek-letter fraternity for women, added to its distinguished history as a "fraternity of firsts" on Jan. 30, 1993, with the establishment of Zeta Xi Chapter as the first women's fraternity chapter at Harvard-Radcliffe, the nation's oldest university.

In addition to its prestigious academic reputation, Harvard — voted the number one university in the United States year after year — is known for its many long-standing traditions, some dating back to its founding in Cambridge, Mass. more than 350 years ago. Many of these traditions, however, are decidedly male-oriented, including finals clubs and the Hasty Pudding Show. In fact, women were not admitted to Harvard University as students until the 1970s, but attended Radcliffe College.

"Especially at Harvard, forming a group for women is extremely important," says Rachel Schlesinger, Zeta Xi Ritualist. "The University is so old and, in terms of its history, women have begun to play a major role only recently. There is a large network for men here, and we should have the same opportunity to form groups exclusively for the benefit of women."

The idea of starting a women's fraternity at Harvard-Radcliffe began more than two years ago. Several women, including current members Grace Wang and Bunnie Lempesis, felt that women at Harvard-Radcliffe needed a place where they could go for support and friendship, in addition to learning leadership skills and being educated about women's issues. After two years and one unsuccessful petition attempt, the National Panhellenic Conference granted the women's request to affiliate with an NPC group in October 1992.

The diverse interest group assembled in the spring and fall of 1992, ranged from freshmen to seniors, hailing from California, Oregon, Indiana, Illinois, South Carolina, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York. The group's first step was to process the information they received from 19 NPC groups. According to the women, Theta stood out from the beginning.

Says founding member Vice-President Administration Bunnie Lempesis, "We were most impressed by the amount of money the Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation presented in scholarships each year, and we liked the idea of CASA as the Fraternity's philanthropy. In addition to that, we were impressed with the prestige of Theta, being the oldest women's Greek-letter fraternity."

Following presentations by three NPC groups in November 1992, the women met. When the votes were tallied, Theta was the fraternity of choice. Kappa Alpha Theta's new Member Orientation program, which provides the opportunity to be initiated as soon as possible, played a role in the women's decision. "At Harvard, we felt that the Member Orientation program was not only appealing to us, but that it would be appealing to the women who would rush in the future," explains Lempesis. "We have to totally revamp what students think of women's fraternities. Women here aren't interested in spending an entire semester playing silly games, but they'll want to be considered members as soon as possible."

Zeta Xi member Rachel Schlesinger adds, "In order to continue and establish a strong organization on campus, pledging has to be as brief a period as possible. Students are involved in so many extracurricular activities, that it might be difficult to have women commit if the pledging period was more than a couple of weeks."

The pledging service for Zeta Xi was held December 13, 1992, despite a

Eager to learn more about the Fraternity, the women took Member Orientation manuals home with them over winter break to read and study over the holidays. When they returned, Chapter Consultant Laura Barchi, based with the colony, began the education process. Although schedules were busy, the Member Orientation program was completed in two meetings, and installation was set for the final weekend in January.

On Friday, Jan. 29, the forecast called for the coldest weather to hit Boston in 20 years. While the temperature dropped to ten degrees below zero outside, friendship and excitement warmed the colony members and installation participants inside the Sheraton Commander, the installation location. The Loyalty Service, led by College District President Eileen, Orscheln, began the festivities. Then Kathy Schweer, college regional director, truly fulfilled her role as installation song leader by directing a rousing sing-a-long. The assisting chapter, Zeta Mu/MIT, lent their incredible voices, and the women of Zeta Xi Colony enjoyed learning everything from rush to candlelight songs.

The day of initiation, Saturday, Jan. 30, began at 8 a.m. with the new members in awe. "Initiation was amazing. I felt so honored to go through it. I felt there was a real bond, not only with the women I was initiated with, but with the women who were conducting the ceremony. I think it really hit home to all the Zeta Xi members that this was it, this is what we had been working toward all these months," explains Lempesis.

With more than 100 Thetas in attendance — including Boston Metro Alumnae Chapter members, who had graciously changed the date of their Founders Day Banquet to coincide with the installation — Zeta Xi President Grace Wang gave the Founders Toast. Fraternity President Carryl Krohne then spoke to the group about the similarities between the women at Harvard-Radcliffe University today and Thetas at Hanover College in the 1890s. noted the likenesses in the small size of the groups, their pioneering attitudes and the quality women who comprised both. The luncheon ended with the Charter Service. "The real highlight of the weekend, besides initiation, was the signing of the charter," says Zeta Xi member Tanya Fenmore. "It made me truly realize that we would always be known as the first women's fraternity here."

She couldn't have imagined how close she would come to predicting her personal future. In 1985, at age 25, when asked in an interview for The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine how future. In 1985, at age 25, when asked in an interview for The Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine how she envisioned herself in ten years, Amy Grant responded spontaneously, "Fat and pregnant!" Today — just a few years ahead of that enthusiastic forecast — the Alpha Eta/Vanderbilt alumna is the devoted mother of six-month-old Sarah, in addition to Millie, three, and Matt, five.

What Grant didn't predict was her rise to success as a bona fide pop star, complete with five Grammys, record sales of more than 15 million and an MTV Award nomination for best video.

Motherhood and music stardom don't seem to mesh until you talk with Grant and begin to understand that she's created a sort of real-life harmony with these two areas of achievement.

An idea for lyrics might begin while she's rocking Sarah. Or maybe a song comes together while she and the kids are listening to a tape in the car, en route to preschool. The recording studio is in a barn on the farm where she lives, literally surrounded by extended family. Even on concert tours, nearly every day is spent with husband, singer/songwriter/producer Gary Chapman, and their children, taking advantage of new sites for family outings.

While reaching lofty star status, Grant has firmly rooted her life in family and faith. Rather than embracing the trappings of success, she has instead gathered about her the familiar: the farm, located near Nashville where she grew up; her family, including parents, sisters, and in-laws; and her trusted friends, among them producer Brown Bannister whom she met nearly two decades ago when he was her church youth group leader.

Most of all, Grant continues to sing from the heart. "I just try to write honestly, things that I like."

from the Heart

Heart In Motion

"I would say the distinguishing characteristic of our household, unlike any home I have ever seen, is that we have so much family," says Grant, pictured with husband Gary Chapman, and children Matthew and Millie. The birth of daughter Sarah in October, 1992, makes them a family of five.

The "simple little songs" that led to her first record contract at age 15, were the prelude to Grant's early acclaim in the gospel music field, winning Grammy awards for Best Gospel Performance three years in a row, as well as numerous Dove Awards (gospel music's Grammy equivalent). As her music matured and her visibility grew, Grant's audience expanded to include not only her original Christian music fans but secular audiences as well. Her 1991 smash album "Heart in Motion" was certified Quadruple Platinum after selling more than four million copies and producing five consecutive Top 5 hits. Among the singles were "Baby Baby," dedicated to then-baby Millie, which reached number one simultaneously in both R&R and Billboard magazines.

Grant's much talked of cross over from gospel to pop is not something on which she focuses. "It never felt like a big deal to me because my experience in music is much more holistic than that," explains Grant. "If creating music is not a natural process of your life it probably seems much more calculated. The whole time I was recording gospel music I was still writing pop songs."

Songs by the Beatles, the Byrds and the Doors — from the record collections of three older sisters — were among Grant's earliest musical influences. Then, she says, it was simply a natural progression from singing others' songs to writing her own. "The first time I performed I wrote songs specifically to round out the repertoire of what I wanted to present to the girls at my school. I had Carol King's "Will You Still Love Me Tomorrow," a couple of James Taylor's songs and Elton John's "Friends." But I was singing for a chapel program, and I wanted to write some simple songs about faith and God's love and that's where it started."

Before Grant had finished high school her album "Father's Eyes" had gone Gold (500,000 copies sold), and she had already surpassed her initial goals and dreams. Nevertheless it wasn't until her junior year at Vanderbilt University (where she transferred from Furman University in Greenville, S.C.) that she says she realized she was serious about "this music stuff." Her Theta friends had begun interviewing for jobs, and Grant decided to make music her official career choice.

In 1982 — the same year she was married to Gary Chapman — Grant's album "Age to Age" was released. It was the first of eight to be certified Platinum, including the 1985 release "Unguarded," a watershed for Grant. "With that album I got the first nibbles of interest from A&M Records, and really my relationship with that record company has completely altered the course of the visibility of the songs that I've done."

But while her career was taking off, Grant's marriage was in a holding pattern, which in 1986 became "tumultuous." Says Grant, "It's like cleaning out your closet. When you really get into the corners and start dragging out all the junk that you didn't even know was there...I think the greatest tool for a marriage to survive in this generation is intimacy."

With the help of a marriage counselor, family support and time to grow up, Grant says she and Chapman were able to take their relationship to a new, deeper level of understanding. And, with that as a base, Grant began the first of several cycles that successfully incorporated both music and motherhood. "That's the way it's happened for me the last three albums," says Grant, describing a  $2\frac{1}{2}$  year process that moves from song selection to recording, through promotion and "more interviews than you can shake a stick at," on to touring and, finally, baby.

"Each one (stage) is just a welcome change from the last...It's just like the seasons. You know, when you light that first fire in the fall you think, 'Oh, I love the smell. I love how this enhances conversation. I love how life kind of slows down a little. This is fantastic.' And then when you're lighting that last fire (of the season) you're thinking, 'If I don't see green soon, I think I'm going to die.'"

Right now Grant is savoring the relatively relaxed pace of the song selection

All About References

Why not tell a college chapter about a young friend who would make a good Theta. Write a letter of reference today!

What To Send

Fill out a rush reference form for each potential rushee. These forms may be obtained from:

- the tear-out at the back of this rush directory
- Kappa Alpha Theta Central Office, 1-800-526-1870
- a Rush Reference Board Chairman (RRBC)
- an Area Rush Representative (ARR)
- a State Chairmen (SC)

Complete information about the rushee's qualifications is essential, and a picture of her is highly desirable. Get both from her or her family IF SHE'S A FRIEND OF YOURS; however, members must NOT call or visit a rushee or her family whom they do not know to request information or a picture.

Where To Send It

Send references to the rushee's hometown reference board. Names and addresses of these boards can be obtained by contacting your local Rush Reference Board Chairman (RRBC) or Area Rush Representative (ARR), or the State Chairmen of the rushee's state (State Chairmen are listed in this rush directory) or by calling Kappa Alpha Theta Central Office at 1-800-526-1870.

If there is no reference board for the rushee's hometown, send references directly to the Reference Chairman (RC) for the college chapter. These names are listed under the college chapters in this directory.

Remember Panhel Rules

Once rush has begun, alumnae as well as collegiate members from other campuses must not contact rushees; and furthermore, alumnae may not contact members of the college chapters to inquire about the progress of rush. Calls must be addressed to the chapter's Membership Adviser. Alumnae are also prohibited from sending food or gifts in any form to the chapter on behalf of a rushee. Breaking Panhellenic rules may cause the chapter to be penalized.

Return The Favor

Do remember that an alumna made your membership possible by writing a reference for you. Now it's your turn. Send your letter of reference today!

Any questions? Call 1-800-KAO-1870!

KAPPA ALPHA THETA FRATERNITY AND FOUNDATION ANNUAL REPORT 1993

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENTS

It gives us great pleasure to be able to talk to each Theta through this annual report. This is the first time that an annual report has been sent to every member. We want you all to know how healthy and vibrant Kappa Alpha Theta is.

CARRYL WISCHMEYER KROHNE, FRATERNITY PRESIDENT The key words for 1992-93 are excitement, energy and excellence. During this school year, we saw the installation of a Theta chapter at the last of the Ivy League schools, as 11 Harvard-Radcliffe women were initiated into Zeta Xi Chapter, January 29, 1993. The chapter continues to grow as 18 women were pledged this spring.

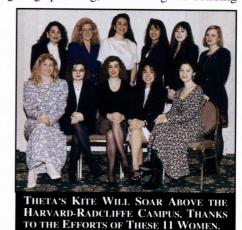

The Theta 2000 Commission brought alumnae from all parts of the United States and Canada and with all degrees of involvement in Fraternity affairs to discuss where Theta alumnae programming should be in the 21st century.

The Foundation launched the Come Fly With Us campaign for graduating seniors, hoping to have 100 percent participation by every chapter. As these young alumnae set sail for life after college, we hope they will establish a lifetime of giving back to Kappa Alpha Theta for all the young women who will follow.

Grand Council and the Trustees targeted five focus areas for the year: alumnae programming, raising $650,000 through the Foundation's annual fund drive, long range planning, maintaining and building college membership, and recruiting and training volunteers. We are happy to report that progress has been made in all five areas.

As the first year of the biennium comes to a close, we both agree that it has been challenging and rewarding to serve as your presidents. We invite you now to review this report and to feel pride in your Fraternity. Theta needs your interest, commitment and participation to continue our long tradition of excellence.

YOUR FOUNDATION DOLLARS AT WORK

A $225,000 grant from the Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation enabled the Fraternity to touch the lives of our undergraduate members through partial funding of the following educational programs.

TALKING ABOUT ALCOHOL...THE GREEK CONSORTIUM

Alcohol abuse has been the number one problem on college campuses for some time, and traditional alcohol awareness programs have had little effect. Talking About Alcohol, or TAA, is a copyrighted program developed specifically for use on college campuses by the Prevention Research Institute (PRI) of Lexington, Kentucky. It is a peers teaching peers program, using the American Heart Association teaching module to help undergraduates reduce their potential for alcohol related problems.

Delta Tau Delta Fraternity, acting on its concern about addressing alcohol problems in a way that respects an individual's right of choice about drinking, began working with PRI in 1983. In 1991 the Delts invited Alpha Chi Omega and Kappa Alpha Theta to form a consortium.

Three or four campuses that have chapters of each group are chosen for regional trainings. Four undergraduates and an alumna/us from each chapter come to a central location for training by professionals from PRI. These students are instructed in peer teaching techniques to take the program back to their chapters. Having men and women from the three fraternities able to teach together or substitute for each other makes teaching easier and improves results. Twenty-five chapters received the training in 1992-93, and 24 are scheduled for next year.

According to a Theta who attended, "What makes this program different is that it is prevention based, with the purpose of helping students make quantity and frequency choices about their alcohol consumption. I feel this program uses a sound approach that can be accepted by our members." It is Grand Council's aim to bring this valuable program to all chapters by the year 1997.

NOT FOR OURSELVES ALONE

Not For Ourselves Alone is the name of the Member Orientation Module of the Balanced Woman Member Education Program, an ongoing program of education for Thetas from bid day throughout alumnae life. The module was further developed during 1992-93, using the comments and suggestions of collegians. Not For Ourselves Alone replaces the traditional pledge program.

The underlying motivation for the new program is the belief that new members need to be assimilated into the chapter as quickly as possible. New members attend chapter meetings, entering after and leaving before the ritual, and initiation is held within four weeks. Lengthy pledge programs that were developed for a more relaxed time do not fit the hectic schedule of today's college students.

Reinforcing Theta's strong belief in high academic achievement, emphasis is placed on maintaining good grades throughout the college experience, not just the first semester to qualify for initiation. The shortened time period and inclusion in chapter meetings and affairs right from the beginning lead to early assimilation of new members.

One of the highlights of the program is taking a personal style inventory and relating the results to what the new members can contribute to Kappa Alpha Theta. New members also examine their personal values in relation to Theta's values to ensure that there is common ground. Throughout the orientation period, new members write in personal journals, making commitments in writing to the beliefs and expectations of fraternity membership.

RUSH LEADER SEMINAR

"This was very interesting and I learned a lot of useful information that will benefit me now and in the years ahead. It applies to dealing with people on a personal and professional level." Thus spoke a collegian who attended a Rush Leader seminar. Developed by Vice-President Membership Carol Larsen, a professional trainer, this seminar brings "real world" management skills from business and industry to the rush leaders of the college chapters.

The two-day seminar includes Planning and Organizing Rush, Delegating, Team Building, Communication, Rush as Sales, and Coaching modules. It is not a "fix it" program for struggling chapters; it is for every chapter and focuses on the benefits effective leadership techniques can bring to membership recruitment.

LEADERSHAPE<sup>TM</sup> INSTITUTE

Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity held the first LeaderShape Institute at Allerton Conference Center in Monticello, Ill., in 1986, and Theta was one of the first organizations to send delegates when the program opened to non-AT $\Omega$ s. Now the LeaderShape Institute is a separate corporation, and more than 1,000 students from 200-plus different colleges and organizations have taken part in this unique, six-day, hands-on learning experience.

Allerton house is set on 1,500 acres of woodland, with 100 acres set aside for the Team Challenge Course, which provides non-traditional experiences and insights into the group problem-solving process. Family clusters of eight to twelve students and a faculty facilitator provide support and an open environment for learning to work with people of different leadership styles. This year for the first time, the Foundation helped make it possible for a representative from each college chapter to attend.

LEADERSHAPE'S TEAM CHALLENGE COURSE TEACHES THE IMPORTANCE OF UTILIZING THE DIFFERENT SKILLS AND ABILITIES EACH PERSON BRINGS TO AN ORGANIZATION.

One enthusiastic Theta participant wrote, "Thank you for giving me the opportunity to participate in such an amazing event as LeaderShape. Through the Foundation's generosity, I experienced something that I will never forget. I plan to bring all of this back to my chapter. I know it will strengthen our chapter." Foundation grants are changing members' lives and making a difference in college chapters.

THETA 2000 COMMISSION

Thetas came to the Headquarters in Indianapolis from as far away as Calgary, Canada, and San Jose, Calif., to imagine the possibilities. A 12-woman commission examined the past and looked to the future to plan an alumnae program for the 21st century.

Ideas for improved operations, communication and programming, including alumnae/collegiate interaction and marketing, were explored by this group of women with varying degrees of Fraternity involvement.

The results of their work may not be obvious right away, but their ideas will be tickling the imagination for years to come.

CHAPTER CONSULTANT PROGRAM

This well-respected program has been funded by the Foundation for many years and continues to serve the Fraternity well. During 1992-93, seven women visited 112 chapters and worked with several chapters on a more concentrated schedule.

The year began with training at Fraternity Headquarters on such topics as officer programming, interpersonal communication, presentation skills, risk management, Fraternity laws and discipline, chapter retreats and much more. Joint training sessions were held with field consultants from the other women's fraternities located in Indianapolis.

During their normal week-long visit, the consultants meet with chapter officers, the executive committee, the advisory board and house corporation officers, and the Greek advisor. In addition to their usual duties, they conducted Rush Leader seminars and worked with the TAA presenters on local campuses.

The consultants serve as good will ambassadors and as liaisons between the undergraduate members and the Fraternity. One chapter wrote, "Thanks for sending Jennifer. Our chapter fell in love with her. She is very friendly, outgoing and fun. She made it a point to get to know people and get involved with our activities. She listened to our problems and gave the best advice possible. I was impressed with how knowledgeable she was about Theta matters."

SCHOLARSHIP GRANTS

The rising costs of a college education and the downturn in the economy have placed severe hardships on many collegiate Thetas. Thomas Carlyle once said, "That there should one man (or woman) die ignorant who had capacity for knowledge, this I call a tragedy." The Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation helped to avert this tragedy for 101 undergraduate and graduate members, who were given the opportunity to continue their education through Foundation scholarships.

Kappa Alpha Theta continues to be a leader in the amount of money granted in scholarships. More than $222,000 was awarded at the 1992 Grand Convention. A Harvard Law School student speaks for many, "I want to let you know how thrilled I was to find out that I had been chosen for one of the Lambert Scholarships. I never doubted that I would go to graduate school some day, but the practicalities of trying to fund such an endeavor are quite daunting. I feel honored and privileged to be part of such an organization. Theta has come through for me in the past few years, and I anxiously look forward to the day when I can come through for Theta in return."

COURT APPOINTED SPECIAL ADVOCATES (CASA)

Nearly 430,000 children are in foster care in the United States, and CASA is serving approximately one out of four of these children. Kappa Alpha Theta is doing its share to help by supporting the National CASA organization through a two-year $100,000 grant.

The grant helps fund public awareness and educational materials, provides a toll-free number for information and referral, provided five start-up grants and supports the Theta Program Director of the Year Award. Thetas help on the local level by serving as advocates, raising money and providing administrative assistance.

TIME IS A VALUABLE COMMODITY!

Time is not tax-deductible, but it is one of the most valuable assets we have. Time for Theta is always needed and wanted. Time to serve as a role model, to be an adviser or serve on a corporation board, or to support your local alumnae group. If you have time for Theta, call 1-800-KAO-1870.

stage. "Toward the end of my pregnancy and right after the birth, my work schedule has really been held to a minimum. I have a great management company that has allowed us to really establish as a family of five," says Grant. "This is such a wonderful stretch of time. I feel like we're still in the euphoric stage...As soon as we get all those songs, boom, we're in the studio and it just doesn't stop."

But even on sold-out, cross-country concert tours, Grant is able to tune in to her family. "Even though we're in a different place every day, the pattern is wonderful," she explains. "Probably the simplest life is on tour because we go to work at night and we're free all day long. A lot of time we'll get on a bus after the concert and drive all night to the next town. So you wake up and have the whole day just to be together."

Touring also provides great opportunities for family sightseeing, which for the Chapmans frequently includes museums and zoos, nature trails and river walks. Grant > says they take their bicycles along on the bus and pack their YMCA card. "We've got Y shorts from all over the country!"

Having a mom who's a celebrity doesn't seem to have affected the children, according to Grant, although their eldest, Matthew, is beginning to take note of his mother from a new perspective. Explains Grant, "I was driving Matt home from school the other day, and he said, 'Mama did you know you're a star? The girls at my class scream when you show up."

Neither has fame been a negative for Grant and Chapman, whose new album will be released in August. "I think the thing that it's done for Gary and me is that we have been forced to really talk and get to know each other, talk about our hopes and dreams, our insecurities. That's a great thing. It really is," says Grant. "I would die of curiosity if he had a nine to five job that I didn't really get to see."

Sharing time together is no problem since both work and family are centered on the Chapman's farm. "I'd always wanted to live on a farm from the time I was a kid," says Grant. "I like the peace and quiet." Both she and Chapman record there in the studio, which Grant's 15-year-old nephew and his band are allowed to use for rehearsals when it's not otherwise occupied.

The family farm is also the site for regular gatherings of youth, which have come to be known as "loft sessions." They began in the summer of 1990 when a Nashville Christian counseling group asked permission to hold their meetings in the Chapman's house, which was soon outgrown and replaced with the loft of the barn. By the end of the ten-week session, says Grant, "Gary and I saw how great the need was and what a fun thing it was." They offered to continue the gatherings, which are held annually and now include about 450 kids on a first-come, first-served basis. Each session features group singing, a musical guest and a speaker. "We basically just really prayed and said, 'God, lead us to the people that could help lead this group. Next week we're getting ready to start the fourth session of the loft," says Grant.

"I think mostly there's such an intense need for high school and college age kids to feel like they can go someplace where nothing is expected of them and they're accepted the way they are. The most revealing thing about the pressure of being that age in this time has been the prayer cards we've done. Toward the end of the night we pass out these 3 x 5 cards and pencils and say 'Okay, write down something that you're going through this week that you want us to pray about. If it's too heavy and you don't want to say the name and the need, fine. God knows both. And don't try to be a goody-two-shoes.

You're not graded on this.'

"We get everything from 'I can't talk to my parents.' to 'I'm pregnant,' to 'The father of the family I babysit for raped me on the way home last week,' to 'I'm confused about my sexuality,'...or 'I'm going to have an abortion next week and I'm really flipped out.' You just can't believe it."

In 1992, Amy Grant was nominated for four Grammy awards and in October released "Home for Christmas," which sold more than a million copies. Her next album is due out the end of this year.

young woman through a family crisis has made the whole thing worthwhile, it isn't always easy. While attempting to provide personal support, she also feels an obligation to be honest with the young people about the limitations on her availability. She says, "It's very humbling. It's a lot easier to be on a pedestal."

But Grant has never placed herself there. In fact, she is known for having a tremendous rapport with her fans. "My music has allowed me to meet a lot of people, and I guess I just feel a certain connection to the people who have supported my music. When I meet kids who listen to my music — I guess a kid is anybody younger than I am — I remember how much the music that I listened to as a teen-ager and in college was a life line. I guess I don't ever want to belittle that unspoken thing."

In addition to personal contact with fans, Grant receives an overwhelming amount of mail. For years, her motherin-law and a friend have helped her respond to the weekly deluge, which includes many letters from children. True to form, Grant considers the situation from a personal perspective. "I have nieces and nephews in the third and fourth grades, and I think, 'If Elizabeth wrote somebody and nobody wrote her back it would kill her.' I try to prioritize responses. If somebody just wants an autographed picture, I will get to it eventually. If it's a class project, I have to knock those out pretty quickly."

It is obvious that Grant takes seriously her position as a role model. "I like attention being drawn to good things. The music industry can be very selfish. I have license now to be a complete idiot and to be applauded for it. But if somebody sees that people have really supported my music and that I'm trying to give something back, that sets a good example. It seems like the only responsible way to live."

This attitude made Grant the perfect choice for Theta's Asbury Society. In 1992 she was one of four Thetas recognized by the Fraternity with the award, which was established to honor women who have achieved notable recognition in their fields of endeavor, and who inspire and serve as role models for other Thetas. Says Grant, "It's an honor. But I'll be honest with you, I don't really focus on that kind of thing. It doesn't occur to me to do that. If you wear that stuff like a banner, it tends to alienate you from other people."

Grant has maintained close contact with members of her Alpha Eta pledge class, with whom she recently attended a reunion. She has continued to support Kappa Alpha Theta as an alumnae member, although her feelings about sororities, "run the gamut." She explains, "It's important to find a place where you feel like you belong...I never really came to terms with the rush system, but life is competitive and people will always try to find common ground...The good thing is that you don't have to be voted in to get into heaven or to be loved by God. In the grand scheme there is not a rush system...But that's kind of the way the ball bounces, life on planet earth, the real world."

That perspective — her ability to be idealistic yet realistic — has no doubt contributed to Grant's success in the music industry. "My idea for 'Baby Baby' (the video) was to have a room full of babies in cloth diapers," says Grant with a laugh. "I really tried to sell them hard on that. But they wanted an 'in love' video, and I think they were right. It was a real stretch for me to make the video, but it was kind of a hurdle that, once I got over, was okay."

Although her aspirations are high, Grant is not obsessed with the future. It all seems to, well, harmonize. Her next album is due out at the end of this year ("Maybe like 'Heart in Motion' with a little more grass roots. But who knows?") and she doesn't rule out the possibility of having another child.

And in another ten years? "My guess would be I'll have finished touring. I might have had a short run as a talk show host. Not a long run. It needs to have a definite beginning and end so you don't wear out your welcome. And I would love to have done something in film.

"We shall see."

THE RUSH LEADER

A Renewed Focus on Friendship and the Future

Rush. Do you think only of nifty skits and pretty chapter houses? Think again.

Rush — our membership recruitment process - is really about getting to know others. About sharing with them the values and ideals of Kappa Alpha Theta. It's about conversation. And it's about friendship, the basis of commitment to Theta.

How important is it? "The future of the Fraternity is dependent on the rush process," says Kappa Alpha Theta Vice-President Membership Carol Larsen. "Today's new members assure the continuance of Theta's college chapters into the next century and the alumnae membership of tomorrow."

But how can you ensure a successful rush?

To help all Theta college chapters prepare for optimal effectiveness in recruiting members, the Fraternity has introduced The Rush Leader, a dynamic leadership training seminar created by Larsen, a professional management consultant.

The two-day seminar, designed specifically for Theta rush officers and advisers, unites the rush process with "real world" management skills. It teaches sound leadership theory via interactive, experiential activities.

Larsen reports that The Rush Leader pilot programs have been extremely successful. "The women go back more confident and capable. Their chapters have maintained or improved their rush success."

Kappa Alpha Theta is part of a trend that is bringing women's fraternities and sororities back to the basics of rush. The Rush Leader supports The National Panhellenic Conference's 1991 Rush Resolution, which, according to Fraternity President Carryl Krohne, "...says in a nutshell that extravagant entertaining is out and clever conversation is in." (See Message from the President on page 5.)

With the support of The Rush Leader, sound rushing skills lead to a more effective and meaningful rush, resulting in members who share Theta friendship and a commitment to Theta's future.

Left: Rush leaders from Ohio college chapters participated in the seminar together. During the weekend they swapped party ideas, taught each other rush techniques and shared rush stories.

Rush Q & A for Alumnae

Q. Are sororities popular on campuses today?

A. Sororities continue to attract capable, talented college women, but rush numbers are down due to declining enrollments, particularly among full-time students, as well as increasing financial pressures and time constraints. Membership recruitment is a priority today for all Greek groups. Says Kappa Alpha Theta Director of Membership Selection Lynda Clark, "Through strong leadership, implementation of new programs and a continuing tradition of excellence, Theta will be a popular choice in the '90s."

Q. Why do rushees choose Theta in the '90s?

A. Today's rushees are looking to Theta for the same friendship, fun and support that has been true through the years. The Fraternity's ongoing emphasis on intellectual excellence and leadership is key. And sisterhood — with its accompanying sense of belonging and networking opportunities — is more important than ever before. Theta's shortened New Member Program, a new officer structure and renewed focus on conversation during rush are drawing cards for today's busy young women, many of whom are holding down jobs while in college and are trying to make the best use of their time.

Q. What are most Theta chapters looking for in a member?

A. Chapters are looking for women of good character, who are serious about their educations and fun to be with. To be specific: high scholarship, demonstrated leadership qualities, character, personality, group adaptability. Writing a letter of reference with these criteria in mind is helpful to the chapter and the rushee.

Q. If a rushee goes through rush as a sophomore or junior will Theta still be interested in her?

A. Yes. Although it varies by campus, well-qualified, upperclass women are viewed as valuable potential members. In fact, some colleges and universities have mandated sophomore rush. And many young women are waiting until their second year to go through rush in order to first establish themselves on campus. The average college student now takes  $5\frac{1}{2}$  years to graduate, so pledging as a junior is also quite acceptable. Theta's New Member Program helps upperclass members by allowing them to become involved more quickly.

Above: Participants make a game of recognizing different personality traits by substituting lemons for rushees and identifying them by their different characteristics. The lemons are then pooled and participants must choose their original lemon.

Below: Rush leaders tested their acting skills when role-playing mock rush situations and demonstrating conflict/resolution scenarios.

Q. Why does the Fraternity use references?

A. Most colleges require references and certainly every job application calls for them. It is a standard request. For Theta, references help the college members of a chapter learn something about the rushee before they meet her, which enables them to get to know her better. References, particularly from alumnae who are well-acquainted with rushees, are a valuable source of information that enhance a young woman's rush experience.

If a rushee does not have a reference, it's up to the chapter and advisers to request one. Advance voluntary references save time for the chapter and are helpful to the rushees.

O. Why did Theta change "recommendations" to "references"?

A. The change in terminology better reflects the use of the information, which is much the same as in the job market.

Q. Why can't I contact the chapter during rush about a woman for whom I've sent a reference?

A. Collegians are grateful for alumnae references, but speaking with alumnae during rush can add further pressure to an already very stressful time. Alumnae may call a chapter's membership adviser with questions, but remember that membership selection information is confidential and keep in mind that alumnae provide references, while chapters choose new members.

Q. Are chapters required to pledge legacies?

A. No, but legacies are given special consideration in that every chapter makes an extra effort to get to know them. Much as we might want all legacies to be pledged, it would be impossible on many campuses, since there are more legacies going through rush than the Panhellenic quotas allow. Sometimes legacies do not choose Theta and quite frequently there are wonderful legacies who simply do not "hit it off" with chapter members. Mothers must remember that no matter how much they may want their daughters to be Thetas, it may not be for the best. Just as collegians must give careful thought to the feelings of alumnae, alumnae must trust their collegiate sisters to make the right choices.

What is The Rush Leader?

THE RUSH LEADER is a two-day seminar that teaches college rush officers and advisers the skills necessary for leading college chapters in a successful rush.

Participants bring back to their chapters improved leadership, management and interpersonal skills, including better listening techniques, conflict management abilities and, through case studies, solutions to real rush problems. Fun, informative and interactive sessions are conducted through a series of modules: Planning and Organizing, Delegating, Team Building, Communicating, Rush Sales Strategy and Coaching.

More than 30 Theta college chapters have participated, or are scheduled to participate, in The Rush Leader. If you are interested in attending the seminar, please call Kappa Alpha Theta Central Office at 800-KAO-1870.

The Rush Resource Center

An additional source of support to college chapters is the Rush Resource Center, housed at the Fraternity Central Office. Created in response to collegiate and adviser requests, the Rush Resource Center supplies packets of information or videos about all aspects of rush — formal or informal — ranging from how to develop better conversational skills to party plans. Thetas may obtain information from the Center for a minimal cost by calling Kappa Alpha Theta's toll-free number, 800-KAO-1870.

Q. What role can I play to help make Theta rush successful?

A. Sending references for the young women you like and think would make good Thetas is essential. Use the reference system to introduce qualified women to college chapters by mailing references (see page R3 in the Fraternity Directory) to the rushee's hometown rush reference board, or, if none exists, to the collegiate reference chairman. (Fraternity Directory, page R4) If you know a legacy, complete a Legacy Introduction Form (Fraternity Directory, page R21) and mail it to the appropriate chapter.

Your volunteer help is also important. Alumnae volunteers are needed for everything from driving, to preparing snacks, to operating computers. Call 800-KAO-1870 and ask for the name of the rush adviser of the college chapter nearest you.

You can also "sell" Greek membership to the young women you know who are going to college. Your Theta friendships and warm memories are what makes Kappa Alpha Theta special to you, and are a testimonial to the benefits of Greek membership.

Campus Alcohol Problem Addressed by Talking About Alcohol

orty-five percent of college presidents cite substance abuse as the greatest campus life concern. Alcohol is the drug of choice. The average number of drinks per week is 5.11. The greater the number of drinks per week, the lower the grade point average. Forty-two percent of the students surveyed reported engaging in binge drinking (defined as five or more drinks in one sitting) in the two-week period prior to the survey. Seven percent binged more than five times in the same period.

This information, reported by the American College Health Association, was garnered from a self-report of more than 56,000 students attending colleges and universities across the U.S. The two-year survey was conducted by Southern Illinois University-Carbondale, but there are many other studies confirming that alcohol is a major concern on college campuses.

Fraternity and Sorority Members Drink More

Unfortunately, alcohol may be an even greater problem for members of Greek organizations. A University of Virginia statewide study showed that fraternity and sorority members drink more alcohol than their classmates. Binge drinking — which is frequently associated with sexual assault, fights, property damage and drunken driving — is also more prevalent among Greeks according to this study. Sorority members are 2.2 times as likely to binge drink as non-Greek women.

The alarming statistics have university administrators, health officials and Greek leaders talking a great deal about alcohol. And Theta's new program, Talking About Alcohol...The Greek Consortium, is addressing the problem.

What is TAA?

Talking About Alcohol...The Greek Consortium, known as TAA, is a copyrighted program of the Prevention Research Institute(PRI) and was developed by Ray Daugherty and Terry O'Bryan. The material is research based and relies on persuasion techniques to convey the message. Alumnae may be familiar with TWYKAA, Talking With Your Kids About Alcohol, which is another of several other programs in the PRI Talking About Alcohol and Drugs Series.

In 1983, Delta Tau Delta Fraternity, concerned about its undergraduate members, wanted a program to address alcohol problems in a way that respected an individual's right to choose. They approached Daugherty and O'Bryan at PRI, and Delts Talking About Alcohol was developed. Two years ago, the Delts asked Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Chi Omega to form a consortium to enlarge the scope of the program.

The consortium gives peer support to the individual groups. When Delts, Talking About Alcohol teaching members from Beta, Tau and Alpha Tau chapters came to Fraternity Headquarters to film a video about the program.

Thetas and Alpha Chis attend the seminars together and return to campus to teach their chapter members, it helps to know that they can have the sessions together or just call on each other for support. The program presents hard facts that help members of these groups make educated choices about drinking. According to Anna Tonne, Alpha Tau, "TAA gave me a new perspective because it wasn't saying 'Don't Drink.' It showed you every aspect of what could cause you not to be able to drink as much, if you chose to drink. It gave you choices, and that's something very important to college students."

Alumnae Needed

The chapters at the following schools are to attend TAA seminars in 1993-94. Alumnae are needed for the TAA teams. If you are interested in helping, call 1-800-KAO-1870.

How The Program Works

Teaching teams consisting of four undergraduate members and one alumna/us from each of the three organizations attend a training seminar given by professional trainers, Daugherty and O'-Bryan. The teams come from three or four universities which have Theta, Alpha Chi and Delt chapters, and are in close proximity to each other.

The seminars, which run from Thursday night through Sunday noon, are held in hotels and conducted in a business-like environment. Sarah Cunso many people and so many schedules to revolve around."

Undergraduates Give Feedback

Vice-President Education Jill Sauser recently convened a group of collegians who had attended a TAA training seminar and are giving successful presentations to their members. Anna Tonne, Kara Bishop and Maura Pritchard from Alpha Tau joined Sarah Cunningham,

"I'm really glad Theta implemented this program because it shows that they are really thinking about us and want us to do well and to be safe in our drinking choices."

ningham, Beta/Indiana, describes the training session: "It was a very professional atmosphere. We were in a boardroom, and there were desks with our names. They treated us like adults, learning adult information."

Maura Pritchard, a member of the Alpha Tau teaching team, said that because they were treated as adults at the training session, they wanted to present the program to their members at Cincinnati in the same manner. "We really tried to implement the same procedure that we were taught the information. Because we were treated with such respect and it helped us. We wanted people to experience the same feeling that we had, so we presented it in that way to our chapter."

The teams are charged with the responsibility of returning to their campuses to teach the program to chapter members. Some teams teach only their own members, but the Northwestern representatives conducted joint teaching sessions. Theta team member Heather Leahy says, "We taught it together as a group of 11 with the other Delt and A Chi O instructors. It worked well in some respects, but we did have some problems just in the fact that there were

Sarah Otte, Meagan Costigan and Leigh Clark from Beta/Indiana and Tau/Northwestern members Erica Schmidt and Heather Leahy at Fraternity Headquarters.

Teaching the program to chapter members is not always easy, and the collegians wanted to share their experiences to make it easier for the chapters scheduled for 1993-94. Sauser says that in order to make the program relevant and the best it can be, "We need to be sensitive to the fact that this is a program for collegians. We need to hear their comments and opinions to stay in touch with what is going on at the college level."

The overall feeling expressed by the teams that came to Headquarters was that in spite of all the difficulties, it is a very worthwhile program. Leigh Clark of Beta says, "I'm really glad Theta implemented this program because it shows that they are really thinking about us and they really want us to do well and to be safe in our drinking choices."

Speaking for all of the Theta TAA teaching team members, Sarah Otte says, "When we have somebody, one person come up to us after a seminar and say, 'You know, I really think I have a problem,' or that 'I think that I need to pay attention more because my parents are alcoholics,' it just makes you feel so good because you've touched just one person. And even though we teach it to 50 people, that one person makes it a success."

Hazel Baird Lease, Alpha Nu/Montana, 1899 - 1993

It is difficult for those who knew her well to choose just one outstanding quality of former Grand President Hazel Baird Lease, because, they say, there were so many.

"I never knew anyone who didn't like and admire her," says former Grand President Ellen Hofstead, Alpha Eta/Vanderbilt, of her long-time Theta friend who died March 31, 1993 at the age of 94. That sentiment is echoed by another dear friend who followed Lease as Grand President, Virginia "Jinny" Speidel Edwards, Alpha Tau/Cincinnati. She recalls, "Hazel was one of the kindest women. She was always there to help you and always fair."

That sense of fairness and what Hofstead calls "unquestioned integrity" made Lease a significant leader of Kappa Alpha Theta, beginning with her dedicated service as a college district president of District XV from 1951 to 1955. In 1956 Lease was elected to Grand Council as 1st Vice President, and in 1958 she became the first to hold the title Grand Vice-President College. She also was a member of the Foundation's first board of trustees.

Lease's term as Grand President, from 1960 to 1964, was marked by a unique leadership ability that combined humanity with good business sense. In addition to her expertise in conducting meetings and, according to Edwards, "a complete knowledge of the Fraternity," Lease possessed a wonderful capacity to solve tough problems in a productive, but understanding manner.

Edwards recalls one particular time at Grand Convention when she and Lease took a walk with the president of a college chapter to discuss some difficulties the chapter was experiencing. Says Edwards, "After that walk, the chapter president said, 'This was the first time I really felt I was a Theta."

"The Fraternity was fortunate to have Hazel," says Edwards. "She was a fine president. A fine Theta. A true friend. We lost a great person."

Trustees Prove Value of Volunteerism

Foundation Trustee Susan Mueller Sladoje

Susie Sladoje doesn't just talk about her priorities. She lives them. Whether fullfilling her role as mother of three, or long-time school volunteer, or recently appointed Foundation Trustee, the enthusiastic Alpha Gamma/Ohio State alumna believes in supporting young people.

"I believe the major responsibility of anyone with children is being a mom or dad because the future depends on them (the children)," says Sladoje. "Just as in Theta, the future depends on what's going on at the college level. We need to buy into our future at the grassroots level."

Sladoje and husband, George, presently serve on the Parent Association Executive Council of Glenbrook High School which youngest daughter Katie attends. Son Steve is a recent graduate of Washington University at St. Louis, and oldest daughter Julie is now a Theta at Ohio State. Sladoje says she is "thrilled with that special bond" the two share.

Sladoje began the first of many years of active involvement in the Chicago North Shore Alumnae Chapter. She joined the evening group meetings where she met other young women and, she says, "From that point on the group has gone through life together. Even our husbands are dear friends. It has meant a lot."

Sladoje served on the Tau/Northwestern advisory board for four years and has held every alumnae chapter office, including president. It was in this capacity that she attended her first Grand Convention and was immediately impressed. "The first thing that hit me was the broad scope of Theta. You can't fathom that until you attend Convention." In 1988 she became assistant convention manager. With fellow Chicago alumna Pat Frey as manager, they formed a capable and fun-loving team.

Although she is involved in a variety of volunteer organizations, including Junior League of Evanston, The Glenview Hospital Craft Exposition, The Independence Day Commission and Values Project for the Village of Glenview Hospital Craft Commission and Values Project for the Village of Glenview Hospital Craft Exposition, The Independence Day Commission and Values Project for the Village of Glenview Hospital Craft Exposition (1997).

Susan Mueller Sladoje, Alpha Gamma/Ohio State

view, Sladoje remains committed to Theta volunteerism. "I am overwhelmed with the opportunity to serve as a Trustee," she says. "I'd like to share the broad scope of Theta with as many people as possible. Theta is Thetas. You can't have one without the other."

Foundation Trustee Shirley Shields Smith

Kappa Alpha Theta and the arts have been Shirley Smith's "very special pursuits" since she was a Gamma Phi collegian at Texas Tech. Smith majored in music education and voice performance, and served as the chapter's song leader when it won first place in a Greek Sing contest. She laughs when she recalls that the chapter had 100 percent participation, "We sounded so good because those who couldn't sing were designated 'mouth movers."

Today Smith is a spirited supporter of the arts in both Denver and Santa Fe, as well as a committed Theta volunteer. Says Smith, "The need for volunteers is greater than ever due to budget cuts. The arts are flourishing in Denver because of individual and private sector support."

Smith and her husband, Marlis, are key to that support. The couple were one of two who chaired the 1993 "Saturday Night Alive," the city's premier fund-raiser, which benefited the Denver Center for the Performing Arts. Smith also has been active in the Conductors Circle of the Denver Symphony Orchestra and the Denver Lyric Opera Guild, and is the founder of the Competition for Colorado Singers, an opera competition in which singers at the graduate level are awarded scholarships for judged performances.

The couple's enthusiasm for the arts has extended to Santa Fe where, as secretary of the Santa Fe Opera Board, Smith attends quarterly meetings with her husband, who is vice-president of the Opera Foundation. Acting on their keen interest in the education of young people, they have begun an apprenticeship at the Santa Fe Opera.

The Kappa Alpha Theta Foundation has also benefited from their concern for education. In 1988, the Foundation honored Smith for her generous financial support by establishing a graduate scholarship in her name. Although it is not a requirement of the scholarship, Smith says it was meaningful to her that the first recipient was a music major.

Smith has lived for 26 years in the Denver area, where she has been active in the Denver Alumnae Chapter and was named Theta of the Year in 1990. "A family of Thetas and Phi Gams," (Marlis Smith recently completed his term as president of the Phi Gamma Delta Board of Trustees), the Smiths have two grown sons and a daughter, Melinda, Beta Omega/Colorado College, who is an artist.

Although Smith believes that local alumnae work is important, she hopes Thetas also will realize the good the Foundation does for Thetas everywhere. She says, "Unrestricted gifts to the Foundation are essential to the Fraternity's ability to provide programming like TAA (Talking About Alcohol) and LeaderShape. These new programs are a step in the right direction."

Theta Profile

"Writing children's books is truly a gift," says Anita Silvey. For more than eight years, the Beta/Indiana alumna has been editor in chief of The Horn Book, the Boston-based magazine, which reviews and recommends the best in literature for children and young adults.

Founded in 1924, The Horn Book Magazine was intended to "blow a horn for good books," a concept portrayed still today on the magazine's masthead page by Randolph Caldecott's illustration from "The Three Jovial Huntsmen."

are possible, and that magic can happen.

A sort of magic does happen all the time in The Horn Book offices, where Silvey and a staff of 12 see about 5,000 children's books each year. "Every day I am excited about something new," she says. "There is a wonderful moment when you find an exciting new book. I call others in to tell them about it. We read to each other. I evaluate what is best, what to send to reviewers."

Silvey is only the sixth editor in the nearly 70-year history of The Horn Book Magazine, which has been reviewing and recommending books for children and young adults since its founding in 1924 by Bertha Mahony Miller. Named for the horn-on-wood primers that were the first books of New England school children, the magazine was intended by the original editor to "blow a horn for good books."

Theta Profile

The bimonthly publication is still blowing that horn to teachers, librarians and parents throughout the United States, Canada and beyond. Although the office is no longer in its original Boston bookshop location, and the world around it has changed,

"When you share a book with a child, you almost become the creator of the book for the child. Because she shared it with me, it has her name and her voice in it."

Silvey says the magazine's purpose — recommending the best — is unchanged. "There is tremendous continuity of vision. There are still (book) reviewers who were appointed by the last four editors. Today's issues are different, the jackets are flashier, but the basics of classic children's books remain the same. A good story and good characters are what's important. Packaging has never been more spectacular, but you don't fool children."

Silvey's ability to look beyond the cover to the content — an instinct for what is real — may be rooted in her midwestern upbringing, although she has lived in Boston for 25 years and considers it home. As a child growing up in Indiana, Silvey had access to a small, midwestern library where, she says, "I read my way around the room." Still an avid reader, her earliest influence was that of people putting books in her hands. "Books were shared with me by people I loved and I have pleasant associations of that time shared with me. They were never presented as a lesson, but a love of literature itself."

As had her mother and grandmother before her, Silvey planned to share her appreciation for books by becoming a teacher. In 1965 she began her first year at Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind. where she met several Thetas through campus activities. "They must have liked in me what I liked in them," remembers Silvey. "I was ambivalent about pledging a sorority, but not about pledging Theta. Thank goodness I did!"

Like many college women in the '60s, Silvey was questioning the status quo. "I was a rebel, but always with a cause," she says. "Theta allowed me to work within the system and try to make changes. I learned that there." Silvey still values her college leadership opportunities and credits fellow Thetas for their encouragement. "They saw things in me I didn't see in myself," she explains. "In business today we look for mentors. That's what I had from upperclassmen. Now I hire and promote young women in publishing. It's hard to do if it's never been done for you."

Although she hadn't planned it, Silvey was well-prepared for publishing and its strong apprenticeship system when she arrived in Boston in 1970. After receiving her bachelor's degree in education from IU, and a graduate degree in communications arts from the University of Wisconsin, she was ready to teach. However teaching jobs were not plentiful. Instead she took a typing job at Little, Brown and Company, where she developed an "instant love affair" with publishing. "I love books and the process of creating books," says Silvey. "It was a lucky chance and not a surprising path from teaching to children's books. Either you work with materials or children."

The following year, Silvey became assistant editor of The Horn Book Magazine and, five years later, co-founded a literary publication, of which she was managing editor. She next joined the staff of Houghton Mifflin Company, first as manager of children's book promotion and advertising, then as library marketing director, before returning to The Horn Book in 1985 as editor.

Each issue of The Horn Book Magazine

features reviews of the best children's books published; articles about children's books written by outstanding authors, illustrators and critics; news of the children's book world; and advertising for publishers' important new titles. Silvey's job is divided between reviewing and the publishing process, including everything from finding and editing material to coordinating content, advertising, promotion and circulation, as well as working with illustrators and writers.

The latter is her favorite part of the job. "The most exciting thing is working with such creative people. I love spending time with them, seeing the way they think. Anyone attracted to the field of children's books, who really cares, is an optimist."

The children's literary industry has become increasingly attractive to many recently because, says Silvey, "People are now making money in children's books." Thanks in large part to the baby boomers, who are reading to their own children, the number of books being published for children has more than doubled in the last five years. But, says Silvey, more doesn't necessarily mean better. Only about ten percent of those published are of the quality The Horn Book Magazine is seeking.

Determining that quality is a job Silvey shares with a group of book reviewers, some of whom Silvey has know for 25 years, who live in various parts of the country and meet to determine what goes in each issue. All either work directly with children in classrooms or libraries, or teach those who work with children, helping ensure that the books recommended appeal not to middle-aged book reviewers, but to children. Although an individual's initials appear on each review, all books are read by several reviewers, who frequently check opinions with each other to be fair to authors and publishers and to temper personal reactions. Explains Silvey, "Sometimes we, I, have irrational passions, but our goal is to do the best for children."

Toward that end, Silvey launched a new Horn Book publication in 1989. The Horn Book Guide to Children's and Young Adult Books is a comprehensive children's book review journal, which is published biannually. And, although Silvey claims that creative work is not her strength, she has translated her fondness for information and non-fiction into a book to be published in 1994, The Reader's Companion to 20th Century Children's Literature.

The world-wide influence of Horn Book publications was felt by Silvey when, in 1989, she was invited by the editors of Detskaya Literatura, the official children's literature journal of the Soviet Union, to prepare an issue of that journal to be devoted exclusively to American children's books. In April, 1990, she delivered a 180-page manuscript in Moscow, which was then published in January 1991.

Today, Silvey is able to include her initial career goal, teaching, in her schedule of publishing, lecturing, and volunteer commitments. At Boston's Simmons College Graduate School of Library Science, she enjoys her role as instructor of a course in modern book publishing.

Throughout a distinguished career in publishing, Silvey has been recognized for her contribution to children's literature. An award she received in 1987, the Women's National Book Association's Book Women Award, is particularly fitting. The award honors women who have brought authors and readers together, and that is precisely what Silvey does with each issue of The Horn Book Magazine. Via library, school, bookstore and individual subscriptions, noteworthy authors and illustrators are introduced to thousands of teachers, librarians and parents, who in turn share the books with children and young adults.

That sharing process can be the beginning of a lifelong love of reading, a fact Silvey appreciates when she acknowledges her mother, grandmother and teachers for their influences. "My mother got me to do dishes if she would read to me. Now sometimes when I stand over my kitchen sink I still hear my mother's voice. When you share a book with a child, you almost become the creator of the book for the child. Because she shared it with me, it has her name and her voice in it."
